Descriptive Questions (6 Marks each)

1. Explain the importance of waking up early in the morning. How does it affect our day-to-day activities?

- Waking up early is crucial for several reasons. It provides us with a head start on our day, allowing us more time to prepare and plan. Being awake early helps in establishing a routine, reducing rush, and ensuring we can complete necessary tasks like breakfast and personal hygiene before heading to school. Moreover, it contributes to a peaceful and calm environment, enhancing our mental well-being. Overall, early wake-up times lead to a productive day by increasing our energy and focus.

2. Describe a morning routine. What tasks do you think are essential to complete before leaving for school?

- A typical morning routine may include several essential tasks. First, falling awake, I would wash my face and brush my teeth to feel fresh. Following that, I would take a shower or freshen up, then get dressed for school. It's important to have a healthy breakfast, which can include fruits, cereal, or toast, to fuel my body for the day ahead. Lastly, checking my school bag for any needed supplies and packing lunch contribute to a smooth start to my day.

3. Discuss the character of Alice. Why do you think she is so curious? Provide examples from the story that demonstrate her curiosity.

- Alice is portrayed as a highly curious character, constantly questioning the world around her. For example, her curiosity is sparked when she sees the rabbit and wonders why he is in such a hurry. She follows him into Wonderland, which amplifies her desire to discover and learn new things. This inquisitiveness leads her to ask questions, such as how the rabbit can talk and why things occur in Wonderland, embodying the essence of curiosity and adventure.

4. Imagine you are Alice and you just woke up in Wonderland. Write a paragraph about your feelings and thoughts.

- Upon waking in Wonderland, I would feel a mix of wonder and confusion. Surrounded by vibrant colors and fantastic creatures, my heart would race with excitement. The sights and sounds would be enchanting, provoking my curiosity about the strange world. I would question everything-why is the rabbit in a waistcoat? How do flowers talk? Driven by my sense of adventure, I would be eager to explore and understand this magical place, making mental notes of all the fascinating occurrences.

5. What are some reasons people might want to be inquisitive about their surroundings? Provide at least three reasons with explanations.

- Firstly, being inquisitive allows us to learn and grow. Knowledge enhances our understanding of the world. Secondly, curiosity encourages exploration, leading to the discovery of new ideas and experiences. For example, asking questions about nature can lead to appreciation for the environment. Finally, curiosity fosters creativity and innovation, pushing us to think outside conventional boundaries and solve problems in more creative ways.

6. Write about a time when you woke up late. How did it affect your day? What did you learn from that experience?

- One morning, I woke up late due to forgetting to set my alarm. I rushed through my routine, missing breakfast and feeling anxious as I arrived late at school. This haste caused me to forget important materials and affected my focus in class. I learned the importance of sticking to a routine and preparing the night before by setting my alarm and organizing my school supplies, ensuring a smoother start the next day.
